Implemented a streamlined cab management system, eliminating the need for students to relay pick-up and drop-off locations. Enhanced efficiency by digitally mapping optimal routes based on student attendance, saving time and fuel.

Crop Disease Classification

Our project utilized convolutional neural networks (CNNs) to develop a crop disease detection model. Leveraging deep learning techniques, we trained the model on a dataset comprising images of healthy and diseased crop leaves. By analyzing visual patterns and features in the images, our model can accurately classify and identify various crop diseases, aiding farmers in early detection and targeted treatment. Our collaborative effort emphasized the intersection of agriculture and technology, aiming to mitigate crop losses and ensure food security. Our project also got first prize in Project Expo 2023.
